Weyerhaeuser Distribution Supplying Decking and Railing Systems from TAMKO® in Select Western States

Company expands distribution offerings with TAMKO's EverGrain® composite decking and Tam-Rail® railing systems

Federal Way, Wash., November 9, 2011 – Weyerhaeuser Distribution is now offering EverGrain® composite decking and railing and Tam-Rail® railing systems – both from TAMKO® Building Products, Inc. – to customers in Arizona, Colorado, Nevada, Oregon and Washington. The products are well suited for homeowners who prefer lower maintenance of their outdoor living spaces, as they do not require painting or staining. www.woodbywy.com, www.tamko.com

“As we looked to expand our decking and railing systems in the West, it was clear Weyerhaeuser has excellent reach and resources,” said Stephen McNally, Vice President of Sales and Marketing for TAMKO. “The West is a strong regional market for composite decking, and our quality products, with Weyerhaeuser’s distribution capabilities make for a perfect match.”

“We’re continuing to expand the products we offer dealers, and have added several new lines this year in targeted regional markets,” said David Helmers, Director of Business Development for Weyerhaeuser Distribution. “Many builders value the quality and ease-of-use of TAMKO’s decking and railing systems. We’re confident the products will help dealers capture more of the growing decking market.”

EverGrain composite decking is available in multiple colors, and has a long-lasting, wood-like grain created by multiple grain patterns for authentic natural beauty. TAMKO offers a 20-year limited warranty against rotting, splintering and termite damage.

Tam-Rail railing systems are made with a patented triple-layer construction for outstanding strength and stability. Available in white, gray and taupe, the systems include square or Colonial balusters, and New England or pyramid post cap shapes. Tam-Rail railing systems come with a 25-year limited warranty.

Weyerhaeuser is one of the nation's largest building material distributors, serving customers from 30 strategically located facilities. The company distributes Trus Joist® engineered wood, Weyerhaeuser plywood and OSB, as well as other leading building products such as siding and trim, insulation and housewrap, and steel concrete reinforcing materials. Weyerhaeuser Distribution services all sizes of dealers, and offers just-in-time delivery, mixed material loads, training, marketing support, and design services.
